

Supplement June 2026

"Welcome to the June timelines supplement. This edition introduces three practical videos: Business Absence at the Suprema attendance device, Understanding the timeware® Fire Alarm Monitor, and Monitoring Core Times. Let's help your team get the most from your timeware® investment."

Karl Briggs - Customer Liaison Officer

Business Absence at your Suprema attendance device...

Business Out and Business In give you accurate timekeeping when staff leave one site to work elsewhere. A quick tap records that the person is off site for roll call, while travel and off site working time can still count as worked time. It reduces confusion, supports fair pay, and keeps attendance records consistent across locations.

Understanding the timeware® Fire Alarm Monitor...

This short video shows how the timeware® fire alarm monitor works and how it can help a business in an emergency. The device connects to the customer's fire alarm system and produces a roll call when an alarm is triggered.

Monitoring Core Times...

This video shows how monitoring core times highlights when employees arrive late or leave early, so managers can act quickly and keep service levels steady. It's a clear way to protect productivity and support fair, consistent attendance expectations across the team.
